wait, when tugs and divers should have been sent to the scene within a few hours after the disaster. Fishermen and life guardsmen who live along the Jersey coast claim the fact that the bodies must be there have been washed away from the place where they met death. They deny that the waves can have any such action for many days to come; that, in fact, the bodies will remain just where they had fallen or within a radius of a few hundred feet for a certain period.

Then they will float after they have got beyond the stage of identification, to be buffeted about by every wind and wave until driven into some friendly harbor. By that time it will have been too late.

again this morning to recover the bodies of the unfortunate victims of the Herring Fishing Club's excursion of Sunday last.

According to the verified list there are at present over thirty human beings missing, all presumably having found a watery grave after the ill-fated Nicol overturned in the squall. The families of the missing men and boys are heartbroken. Scarcely an hour passes but many of them beseege the offices of "The Evening World" asking for news of their relatives. Hope that they could by any possibility have escaped death has been abandoned. All they want now and it is the utmost they expect is to have the bodies taken from the water and given a last resting-place in the cemetery.

It was attempted, the drags from the line scraping the bottom nearly sixty feet below, on the deck stood the men, ready at a moment to glide overboard and search under the water for the bodies. The drags were also in position ready to go as soon as the sunken Nicol had been found.

He says the American Railway Union doesn't want to be in travel till the last day of arbitration has been resorted to.

CARNOT'S BODY IN PARIS.

Room at the Palace Elysee Made Into a Mortuary Chapel.

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, June 26.—The funeral train bearing the remains of M. Sadi-Carnot, the late President of the French Republic, who was fatally stabbed in his carriage by Cesarri Santo, an Italian anarchist, while driving through the streets of Lyons on Sunday night, arrived here at 3:30 A. M. to-day.

The Prefect of the Seine, M. Poubelle, and his staff; the Prefect of Police, M. Loez, and his staff; the railroad officials and Gen. Sausser, the Military Governor of Paris, with his staff, met the body at the station, which was heavily draped with crepe and other emblems of mourning.

The ceremonies at the railroad terminus were private and consisted only in the formal transfer of the remains to the Prefect of the Seine.

The casket was placed in a hearse in the presence of the officials mentioned and the officers of the late President's Military Household, headed by Gen. Bousier, Chief of the Military Household; Capt. Jaureguiberry and Col. Chamoin.

The hearse was then escorted to the Elysee Palace followed by five caissons, including a landau, which was occupied by the widow, Mme. Carnot, and her three sons.

In spite of the early hour and the fact that the time the body was to arrive was not generally known, a crowd composed of several thousand people had gathered about the railroad station.

Upon arriving at the Elysee the hearse and its accompanying carriages were admitted into the grounds, after which the gates were closed.

At the palace the body was received by the officers of the late President's Civil Household and was conveyed to one of the reception rooms which had previously been converted into a mortuary chapel, hung with black cloth and having a catafalque in its centre upon which, in silver letters, was the initial "C" (Carnot), over the letters "R. F." (Republique Francaise).

The widow was so overcome with emotion when the casket was placed in the mortuary chapel that she was compelled to retire to a private room, where her sons did their utmost to console her.

The Cabinet Ministers were not at the station, nor were they present when the body arrived at the Elysee.

Friend & House to Look After Patrolmen's Interests at the Investigation.

When the Lexow Police Investigating Committee resumed its work this morning in the Superior Court after a three days' rest there was every prospect of a lively day's session. Nobody knew exactly what was coming, but there were rumors floating about and a general air of expectancy prevailed.

One of the earliest corners this morning was ex-Judge Sutherland, about whose status as counsel to the Committee there has been so much talk. This morning Mr. Sutherland was quoted in an interview as saying:

"Mr. Gott may be a good lawyer, as far as local matters are concerned. He will find out that I am counsel for the Senate Committee, and that he or no other man can control the investigation. I alone represent the Committee as counsel."

The only thing that Mr. Sutherland has done since Mr. Gott began his work with the Committee has been to take copious notes and crack jokes with Mr. Nicol, or ex-Judge Ransom across the counsel's table.

No one has ever seen him address any remarks to Mr. Gott, nor has the latter ever had anything to say to his Rochester associate. In fact, they never speak as they pass by.

When Mr. Sutherland's attention was called to the reported statement turning he turned red and looked annoyed.

"Now, that's ridiculous," he said. "I never made any such remark at all. You may deny it as strongly as you please."

"But how about the fact that you said you would prepare the report of the Committee?" he was asked.

"I cannot say anything about that," he replied. "It would not be proper for me to do so. If you want any information upon that point you may inquire of the members of the Committee."

Lexow's Banquet.

Chairman Lexow's banquet to his colleagues at his home at Nyack this evening was also the subject of much gossip. The story was repeated that Mr. Sutherland had been invited and that Mr. Gott had been left out.

"I was not invited," said Mr. Sutherland this morning. "and I don't expect to go, so I don't think there is very much in the story. Underneath it was just a little informal invitation extended by the Chairman to his associates."

A new feature of the proceedings this morning was the appearance of Lawyer Manny Friend, of the firm of Friend & House, who had been invited and had been present at the Lexow's banquet.

Friend represented all the members of the Committee to look out for the interests of the police. He was seated down to the accused ward men and members of the steamboat squad. Ex-Judge Ransom, who was surprised when he learned that he was to have a new associate, but he welcomed Mr. Friend cordially.

Capt. Max Schmittberger entered the courtroom in company with Father Huey, with whom he chatted in an animated tone. Afterwards, when Mr. Gott arrived, the Captain held an earnest consultation with him.

Nicol Astonished.

Mr. Nicol seemed greatly astonished when he came in and found Lawyer Friend and ex-Judge Ransom in the blue coats.

There must be some mistake about this, said the District Attorney. "I am supposed to represent the whole police department. I don't understand what it means."
